

A.) This model would use text classification. The model would use predefined categories to organise the emails and which folders they are sent to.

B.) Automated Essay Scoring. The model would use many NLP applications like tokenisation to create tokens and analyse the essay

C.) Question Answering. The model could get the answers from the users and use the similarity function to see which illness is like the answer the patient has given.